THE APP'S NEW FEATURES

Albums can be purchased directly from inside the App, with purchases handled by Apple's App Store and Google's Play Store, and no longer from our web-shop.

A second series of albums is in production: they will appear in the App as they are released. The first album of this second series is now available.

Our famed liberating Bio Active Listening, which has been free to enjoy for years on our website, is now also available to try in the App. You can use it whenever you feel the need for a quick and effective rebalancing.

The App menu has been improved and more detailed information on using Bio Music One and the App itself is now available.

The album audio samples are also accessible from the App via streaming, to help you consciously choose your albums.

If you already own Bio Music One albums, our new App will recognize you and allow you to download them again for free.

The App is optimised for iOS and Android platforms.
